Today's Topic: Over 8.4 million Americans report having Scottish heritage, and most scholars believe the actual number is much larger than this. This presentation will dive into the Scottish immigration waves to America. It will explore the various reasons immigrants left Scotland along with their settlement patterns within the United States. The migration waves will range from 17th century immigrants that were banished from Scotland and settled in New England, to the 18th century Scots-Irish immigrants that primarily settled in the Mid-Atlantic states and the Carolinas, to the 19th & 20th century immigrants who primarily settled in the larger and rapidly growing American cities.

The presentation will also discuss the cultural influences that those from Scotland brought to the expanding America. Finally, the presentation will highlight the top resources for researching your Scottish ancestors.

About the speaker: Scott Norrick's passion is connecting people to their past. His areas of expertise include research in the American Midwest along with the immigration to the Midwest from Britain, Ireland, and Germanic countries. He also does significant research into Civil War records. Through his company Ancestral Past, he assists others on their genealogy journey. He is a member of the Association of Professional Genealogists.
